Pall Mall.
Few perhaps know that Pall Mall derived its name from an old "Pall-mall" court which stood on the site 300 years since. This game was simply a slightly different form of croquet and appears to have gone completely out of fashion in the eighteenth century. Who revived it and how it came by its modern name are not known.

The Limit of Life.

The most eminent medical scientists are unanimous in the conclusion that the generally accepted limitation of human life is many years below the attainment possible with the advanced knowledge of which the race is now possessed. The critical period that determines its duration seems to be between 50 and 60; the proper care of the body during this decade cannot be too strongly urged; careless then being fatal to longevity. Nature's best helper after 50 is Electric Bitters, the scientific tonic medicine that revitalizes every organ of the body. Guaranteed by Red Cross pharmacy. Price 50c.

ADmits STRIKE OUTRAGE.

A Brakeman Who Fired the Company's Property.

Boulder, Col., Aug. 15.—John W. Reeves, a brakeman employed on the Colorado & Northwestern railroad, who has been held as a suspect in connection with the destruction of the Colorado & Southern station by fire and dynamite early Saturday morning, yesterday confessed that he was responsible for the crime. Later Frank Kiser, another suspect, also confessed. The result of their act was the death of five persons and the injury of a half-hundred others besides the destruction of property valued at half a million dollars. When it became known that Reeves had confessed, a mob gathered at the county jail for the purpose of lynching him, but he was spirited from the jail by officers and taken to Denver in a carriage. The public has not been informed of Kiser's confession. Frank Kiser says that during a discussion of the Colorado & Southern strike, the suggestion was made that the crowd set fire to some of the company's property. Acting upon this suggestion, they went down to the yards and set fire to a caboose belonging to the company, and from this blaze the depot caught. The explosion of several hundred pounds of dynamite on one of the cars caused the loss of life and great destruction of property.

Mosquitoes Delay Delaware Mail.

Wilmington, Del., Aug. 15.—Mosquitoes are playing havoc with the delivery of the mails along the shores of Delaware bay. Dozens of rural carriers who start from Dover have been made ill by attacks from the pests.

The insects attack the carriers and their horses in swarms. In order to alleviate the sufferings of men and beasts it is necessary to plunge into the bay for salt-water treatment.

THE ALTON MAY ESCAPE A TRIAL

All Depends on 'Good Faith Shown in Standard Oil Case.

Chicago, Aug. 15.—Judge Kenesaw M. Landis, in the U. S. district court, yesterday postponed until Sept. 3 the grand jury investigation of the charges of rebating against the Chicago & Alton railroad, growing out of the recent trial which resulted in the conviction of the Standard Oil company of Indiana.

Judge Landis explained that since the court ordered the jury drawn he had received a communication from Attorney General Bonaparte, the substance of which was that when the government gathered evidence against the Standard Oil company prior to its indictment the then district attorney, Charles B. Morrison, entered into an agreement with the Chicago & Alton railroad providing immunity for the railroad company if it aided the government in prosecuting the oil company.

JUDGE K. M. LANDIS.

Judge of the United States circuit court, who tried the Standard Oil case and summoned John D. Rockefeller to testify. The conviction of the oil monopoly left upon him the responsibility of deciding what punishment would prove adequate to the case.

Judge Landis said: "This gives the situation a peculiar and delicate phase. No offender should escape punishment, but at the same time not even the mearest criminal should be able to truthfully charge the government with bad faith." Judge Landis' ruling will doubtless sustain the attorney general's interpretation of the agreement. Morrison is said to have provided immunity from indictments for all of the employees of the railroad as well as for the corporation.

Similar agreements are believed to have been made with other railroads that aided the government in procuring the evidence on which the Standard was indicted in the several oil cases now pending. If this is true none of the railroads will be indicted for giving the oil company rebates.

WAS WITH FARRAGUT.

Funeral of T. J. Rollins at Everett Today.

Everett, Mass., Aug. 15.—The funeral of Thomas J. Rollins, a naval veteran of the Civil war who fought under Admiral Farragut on the Mississippi, took place this afternoon at 2 o'clock at the home, 42 Waverly street. The deceased was a naval veteran, of which he was a member, conducted the service, and the interment was in Glenwood cemetery.

Mr. Rollins served on the United States ship Florida as ensign during the early part of Farragut's Mississippi campaign and later as executive officer of the United States ship Saco. At the time of the capture of New Orleans he was on the Florida and was in command of the second boat to be sent ashore after the battle.

He was born in New York city on July 7, 1824. At the age of 16 he went to sea as cabin boy on the Henry Clay, a packet boat. From that time until 25 years ago he followed the sea.

He sailed in the Atlantic and Pacific oceans, to the East and West Indies, China and Africa. About 1849 he was second officer on the Sovereign of the Sea, sailing from San Francisco, and was later captain of the three-masted schooner Friedlander, sailing between New York and Liverpool. He was also captain of the Ashland, which was wrecked in 1850.

He enlisted in the navy, January 5, 1864, and served until October 6, 1865. After the battle of New Orleans Mr. Rollins fell over a gun, causing internal injuries, which were the cause of his death. At the close of the war he was offered a commission as lieutenant in the navy, but declined, wishing to retire to civil life.

After retiring from the sea he was for 20 years superintendent of the Ley and line docks in East Boston. He fell into the hold of one of the steamers about six years ago and broke his leg and at that time decided to retire. He was presented with a handsome gold-mounted walking stick, made of a piece of the United States ship Kearsarge.

He lived in Boston after the war and has lived in Everett for the past 19 years at 42 Waverly street. He was in comparatively good health until two days previous to his death.

The Judge Uses Forceful Language.

Judge W. B. Simmons of Fincastle, Va., told the reporter that L. & M. Paint was used on his residence in 1892, and held its color well for 21 years; he furthermore said that 3 years ago he was induced to use another paint and is sorry he did, because the other paint didn't make good. The Judge will now always use L. & M., because he knows if any defect exists in L. & M. Paint the house will be repainted for nothing.

The L. & M. Zinc hardens the L. & M. White Lead and makes L. & M. Paint wear like iron for 10 to 15 years. Actual cost of L. & M. about $1.20 per gallon.

Donations of L. & M. made to churches. Sold by Maxfield & Cutler, Plainfield.

SCORES SCOTCH LAND BILL

Speech in House of Lords by Roseberry

RIDICULES GOVERNMENT

Efforts for Scotland—Religious Cleavage in Belfast—Trouble—No Distrust of Panama Labor Contracts, Says Churchill.

London, Aug. 15.—Lord Roseberry made another of his meteoric appearances in the House of Lords Tuesday night and delivered an able speech against the Government. The House was crowded to hear him. With great rhetorical brilliancy he denounced the Government's Scottish small landowners' bill. The rumor had gone forth that Lord Roseberry was to speak, and the House was filled to listen to a Liberal peer castigate a Liberal cabinet. Lord Roseberry declared that he wished the Government well, but he ridiculed the efforts to legislate for Scotland. His complaint was that the bill in question would "crozierize" Scotland. In the most scathing manner and with an abundance of dramatic gestulation the speaker declared he would not be a party to the introduction into the healthy body politic of Scotland of the "poisonous bacillus of the Irish-American system." The Conservative peers were delighted and cheered Lord Roseberry to the echo. His speech was the event of the evening, but the Conservatives themselves doubt whether it will have much practical effect.

EDWARD MEETS KAISER.

In German Uniform, With Emperor in British Uniform.

Wilhelmshaven, Aug. 15.—King Edward of England arrived here yesterday, on his way to meet the Emperor Francis Joseph at Ischl, for which place he will depart this evening. The King, who wore a German uniform, was received by the Kaiser, who was attired in a British uniform.

The two monarchs shook hands cordially and kissed. They then drove to the castle through streets gay with flags and filled with crowds, who cheered them. At the castle the Kaiserin, surrounded by ladies-in-waiting, received the king.

A GIRL WIPE LOST

IN NEW YORK CITY.

Elizabeth Snow of Southbridge Strange-ly Missing, Her Husband Reports.

New York, Aug. 15.—Mrs. Elizabeth Snow, the 29-year-old wife of a machinist from Worcester, Mass., and without knowledge of cities, is missing unaccountably after only three weeks in the city. Her husband, Frederick Snow, has asked the police to find her, and has sent word to relatives to come and help in the search.

Snow was married to his wife not long ago at her parents' place, a farm near Southbridge, Mass. Snow was well supplied with money, was ambitious to come to New York, and arrived three weeks ago with his wife. They took a flat.

Snow, who was trying to find a situation, left his wife alone every day longer than he liked, but as for its not being safe to do so, the thought entered neither his head nor hers.

When he was absent his wife spent much of her idle time sitting in Mt. Morris park to the east of where they lived, so that she became known to other women in the neighborhood, who last saw her Monday.

DAMAGED BY DROUGHT.

Early Corn and Potatoes Suffering in Chester Section.

Chester, Aug. 15.—The hot weather and accompanying lack of rain which has prevailed during the past weeks, have caused much damage to the early corn, and potatoes in this section, and in some places the corn has been almost ruined. The potatoes have another enemy which is working much injury to the vines, in the shape of a rust, which has made its appearance extensively here.

The smaller streams in this section are dry and the brooks are much lower than usual, many of them being at a lower stage than for a good many years. The reservoir which supplies the town with water has been reduced to such an extent that the water commissioners have issued orders curtailing the amount of water to be used. The grass in many places has been withered so badly by the drought that it has the appearance of having been run over by a fire and burned beyond use.

"GEN." COXEY PLANNING TO START A NEW PILGRIMAGE.

But He Won't Divulge Where He's Going or Why.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Aug. 15.—"Gen." Coxe, leader of the famous "ho-bo" march across the country to Washington ten years ago, is planning to start a new pilgrimage, but will not tell its destination or its purpose.

MANILA VERY HEALTHY.

No Contagious Disease for the Last Six Months.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 15.—The records of the Manila bureau of health, extracts from which have been received here, show that for six months not a contagious disease has been in evidence. This, it is stated, is the first time in the history of American occupation such a record has been established.

MIXED IN THE THUNDER.

A Scene in "Macbeth" That Was Not on the Playbill.

It is related of Cooke, the actor, that when a youth, being without the necessary cash to pay for a seat "in front," he got behind the scenes one night and hid himself in a barrel. He had for companions two large cannon balls, but the youth, not being initiated into the mysteries of the place, did not suspect that cannon balls helped to make thunder in a barrel as well as in a twenty-four pounder.

The play was "Macbeth," and in the first scene the thunder was required to give due effect to the situation of the crocheting witches. It was not long ere the Jupiter Tonans of the theater, alias the property men, approached and seized the barrel, and the horror of the concealed boy may be imagined as the man proceeded to cover the open end with a piece of old carpet and tie it carefully to prevent the thunder from being split.

Cooke was profoundly and heroically silent. The machine was lifted by the brawny stage servant and carried carefully to the side scene lest in rolling the thunder should rumble before its cue.

All was made ready, the witches took their places amid flames of resin, the thunder bell rang, the barrel received its impetus with young Cooke and the cannon balls, the stage stricken and roaring lustily, to the amusement of the thunderer, who neglected to stop the rolling machine, which entered on the stage, and Cooke, bursting off the carpet head of the barrel, appeared before the audience, to the horror of the weird sisters and to the hilarity of the spectators.—London Mail.

MUSHROOMS.

Those That Are Poisonous Always Carry the "Death Cup."

Mushrooms when poisonous are the most dangerous plants in existence, as there is no antidote for the poison. Without going into the intricacies of the edible "meadow" (Agaricus campestris), and the "horse" mushroom (Agaricus arvensis), which are among the most wholesome and valuable vegetables, and of the numerous other harmless and nutritious varieties, as distinguished by their dark spores from the poisonous kind with white spores, one rule of observation will preserve the health and safety of any one collecting wild mushrooms for eating. Without the use of a single technical term, the difference in poisonous and nonpoisonous mushrooms is easily shown, even to a novice. What botanists call the "death cup," the volva around the stem, or in plainer terms, the socket around the stem, is never absent from the deadly mushrooms. Sometimes it is distinct, well above ground, up around the lower part of the stem; then again it is below ground, but not attached to the stem so as to lose the cup shape, and sometimes it grows upon or is attached to the stem, giving it a bulbous, swollen base. Severely reject every plant that has a bulbous stem or the cup standing out around the stem. All edible and harmless mushrooms have straight stems, the same size from the root to the cap.—Georgia Torrey Denman in Good Housekeeping.

A CLEVER REPORTER.

He Got the Interview Word For Word and Took No Notes.

Interviewer—I have come to get your views on the proposed change in the curriculum of the school.

Mr. Swelhead—Curriculum! What's that mean? I'm against it, whatever it is.

Mr. Swelhead (reading the report of the interview in the next morning's paper)—"Our distinguished townsman, Mr. M. T. Swelhead, was found at his charming home, surrounded by abundant indications of ripe scholarship and sturdy common sense. In reply to our representative's questions he said, 'I do not desire to force my opinions upon the public, but this I will say, that I have given to this question long and studious attention, incidentally examining upon the curricula of institutions of learning, both at home and abroad, and, although I found in the existing course of study not a few matters for condemnation, still I cannot say that I should advise any radical change until I have further time to examine into the subject.'" By George, that fellow's got my exact language word for word. And he didn't take notes neither. Jiminy, but what a memory that fellow must have!—London Telegraph.

Nothing Doing.

The musician was visibly annoyed. "But, hang it all," he said, "I told your reporter three or four times over that the violin I used was a genuine Stradivarius, and here in his report this morning there's not a word—not a word!"

With a scornful laugh the editor replied: "That is as it should be, sir. When Mr. Stradivarius gets his fiddles advertised in this paper under $2 a line, you come around and let me know."—Los Angeles Times.

A Fine Morning.

"Fine morning, your honor," affably remarked the man who had been arrested the night before for being drunk and disorderly.

"Yes, indeed," responded the justice, "quite a fine morning—in fact, a ten dollar fine morning."

"In Australia," bragged the native of that country, "you can pick up gold by the pint."

"It comes in quarts in America," reported the quick-witted nephew of Uncle Sam.—Pittsburg Post.
